be able to give you girls proper advice, you girls who are looking for a husband. When you see Daniel, David, Moses and all the prophets, listen to what they have to say, and they will properly advise you boys and girls. I am going to have handed to every one of you 15,000 children one of these books as a gracious gift. I ask that you first study it faithfully. Ask someone else to sit with you under the shade of a tree and study that which leads to life and endless blessings. . . . It is your privilege between now and before the day school opens to spend six hours a day in taking the book Children to others.” The parents should encourage their children to do this very thing, if they would have them live.

Cartons of Children that had been deposited in the Arena were now opened, and Judge Rutherford instructed the children how to come and each get a copy thereof, those in the rear half of the Arena marching in two columns out through a side exit, and those in the front half of the Arena marching up over the platform and out through a rear exit. As the march began, the orchestra (minus all its children instrumentalists) struck up and rendered songs, “Children of the Heavenly King,” “The Sword of the Lord and of Gideon,” and “Who Is on the Lord’s Side?” while the vast audience sang. Never was there a more moving sight in these “last days.” Many, including strong men, wept at the demonstration. Receiving the gift, the marching children clasped it to them, not a toy or plaything for idle pleasure, but the Lord’s provided instrument for most effective work in the remaining months before Armageddon. What a gift! and to soar, and to make millions of releasing the new book Child as an outright surprise to all, but the almighty hand of the All-wise One, Jehovah, was in it, and the maneuver was most blessed indeed. Thereafter Children, the author’s edition, was disposed of to adult conventioners, on a contribution.

The blessings of the Assembly were further enhanced by the afternoon session, which provided a delightful antidote to “Children’s Day.” The Arena was again packed out to hear about “Your New Work!” and the president’s parting words. For weeks the question had been upon many consecrated minds, and at 3 p.m. the first speaker, the factory and office servant at Brooklyn, disclosed the “new work,” to wit, the placing of Children, and thereafter, over a period of three weeks, sending each obtainer, at no extra cost to him, the “Children Study Course,” to wit, three attractive, illuminated question-and-answer folders, these to be followed the fourth week by a back-call service by the one pleasurable method. Another speaker, on “Solving the Problem,” showed how the new book, together with the “Children Study Course,” provided the solution for the problem of company publishers to reach their individual quota of twelve back-calls monthly and one model study weekly, as suggested in the recent communication of the president of the Society. Three speakers then spoke, each briefly on “When to Begin,” and were in concert as to the answer, that now is the time.

When, next, Judge Rutherford came on the platform, he talked extemporeaneously, but the unspeakable blessing the Lord bestowed in the morning appeared to have put him in the best of condition and filled his heart and mouth full of words “in season” and “slyly spoken.” For forty-five minutes the audience spent a most delightful time listening. Said Judge Rutherford: “It is not exactly a new work, but it is putting on a little more steam for the final roundup.” Then concerning the book just released, he added: “We had on the grounds this morning only 40,000 of the autographed edition . . . . But I am glad to tell you that, while that 40,000 are gone, there is another 150,000 copies on the grounds ready for use. [Applause] So you will have 150,000 on the grounds here to start with now, and I think it might be well for two or three thousand first-class workers to go into the St. Louis field and get those in the hands of the people here who want to know something about it before you go away.” It developed that more than 3,000 persons of good-will turned in their names at the public meetings, requesting calls by Jehovah’s witnesses and further information.

Then in most interesting fashion he told of his visit to the trailer camp Saturday, and also of the opposition and the difficulties caused by the public service bodies, such as the Chamber of Commerce and the Convention Bureau, all due to their subservience to the religious organization, whom he symbolized under the figure of one distressed “Fayther O’Hooligan.” The description of the actions and the bawdy orders of this “Fayther O’Hooligan” in his own brogue to local businessmen and Catholic population caused great amusement, and the assembly laughed again and again. (Psms. 2:4; 37:12, 13; 50:6) Then he told of the good people of St. Louis and showed how the parable of the “sheep” and “goats” had thus had local fulfillment.—Matthew 25.

The city editor of the Globe Democrat sent him a question. “Do you not think it discourteous to criticize another person’s religion in his own community?” but, due to “Fayther O’Hooligan”, they refused to publish the answer submitted, though it was of great public interest. The Roman Catholic Hierarchy in America have treated in like manner all proposals, challenges and petitions to public discussion in debate over radio. They have all been warned, and now “we are going to spend our energy and time and strength in going to the people of good-will toward God and his Theocratic kingdom, carrying to them the message”. Hope-rousing and stirring was his statement: “I feel absolutely certain that from henceforth . . . those who will form the great multitude will grow by leaps and bounds.” The arising of 15,000 children this morning was a practical answer and reproof to the “evil servant” class who say, “Humph! where’s the great multitude!”

For ever to disprove all published false charges and slurs that he is the leader of Jehovah’s witnesses, he said: “I want to let any strangers here know what you think about a man being your leader, so they won’t be forgetting. Every time something rises up and starts to grow, they say there is some man a leader who has a great following. If there is any person in this audience who thinks that I, this man standing here, is the leader of Jehovah’s witnesses, say Yes.” But there was a unanimous “No!” emphatically. “If you who are here believe that I am just one of the servants of the Lord, and we are working shoulder to shoulder in unity, serving God and serving Christ, say Yes.” The unanimous “Yes!” was strong and unequivocal. “Well, you don’t have to need me as an earthly leader to get a crowd like that to work.” He now asked them to return to their respective parts and “put on more steam” and “put in all the time you can” Then he offered words of benediction.

Briefly referring to the coming convention in Britain in September he asked them to join with him in a cabalgram, as follows: “To the Leicester Assembly: Your fellow servants, assembled, 115,000 strong at St. Louis, bid our British brethren be very courageous and hold fast your integrity. Theocratic victory is certain. [Signed] Jehovah’s witnesses in America.” This was adopted with a unanimous “Aye”.

His final words were, “Well, my dear brethren, the Lord bless you. Now I won’t say Good-bye, because I expect to see you at some time again.” By this the brethren were greatly encouraged, and their hearts and minds were turned to the still greater and grander event, “the general assembly” spoken of at Hebrews 12:23. Till then they would keep covenant and maintain integrity toward Jehovah God, and endure hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ, and continue on in God’s “strange work” as his faithful and true witnesses, till done.

[An more detailed report of the convention will appear in Consolation.]
